CELESTIAL

Artwork to animate and add luminosity to
City Hall, Coral Springs, Florida

Artist Ray King's CELESTIAL is a sculpture made of highly polished, lightweight, stainless steel spheres, suspended from the ceiling of the Coral Springs Municipal Complex in Coral Springs, FL, was installed in December 2017.

The inspiration for this piece is the sun, air, and water – the landscape surrounding the City of Coral Springs, FL. The floating sculptures suggest reflective clouds, planets, silver jewelry and the hydrodynamic movement of bubbles rising through water. The polished stainless steel spheres will reflect light, create shadow patterns and mirror the surrounding space. The reflective surface of the spheres will reflect the changing environment, including people as they pass through the space. The sculpture appears different from every vantage point, and from the mezzanine the upper level of beads will suspend at eye level.
